

Wib and Jane Bios for PLENTY

Married for 37 years Jane and Wib have for much of that time worked side by side. Jane's background in magazine design started decades ago where she had numerous large trade association clients in the DC area, taking over 800 magazines to press. Wib had a background in sales and marketing in the area prior to moving to Sedona, Arizona with Jane and their two daughters in 1999. Creating Thunder Mountain Design in 2003, it became the top visual design firm in the area. Jane designed and art directed, Wib brought marketing, writing and photography skills to the equation. In 2018 they relocated to the Seneca area, launched PLENTY magazine, followed by a sister publication WANDER for rural Loudoun County, Virginia. Thunder Mountain Publishing LLC (formerly Thunder Mountain Design) also services other clients in print advertising, web and book design, and editorial services for commercial and nonprofit clients.

In the service area, Jane and Wib have helped to found several nonprofits and have functioned as board members of others. While in Sedona, Arizona they helped establish Sedona as the 35th International City of Peace, a UN-inspired global effort to create cultures of peace in cities around the world. Today there are over 400 Cities of Peace. Returning to their Maryland roots to be with aging mothers, other close family and to continue to be a part of their local Buddhist organization in Poolesville, they are feeling most fortunate to have met so many dedicated and wonderful folks and to have been welcomed and embraced by those who have lived in the Ag Reserve for years.